For the Louisville Journal To "Many Loyal Voters."

LOUISVILLE, June 27, 1862 GENTLEMEN: I will endeavor to give an explicit, ingen "explicit, ingenuous response" to your card addressed to me, and published in the Louisville Journal of this morning. On the 18th of May, 1861, I published in the Journal an article against the heretical doctrine that a State has a constitutional right to secede from the Union

On the 26th of June, 1861, I published in the Journal an article to show that forts, arsenals, mints, revenue vessels, arms, and ther public property had been violently seized by Southern secessionists prior to the inauguration of President Lincoln—and that the act of secession on the part of South Carolina was the first great, overt, and efficient cause of the war.

On the 27th June, 1861, I published in the same paper an article to show that there can be no such thing as the right of revolution, unless revolution be in itself right; that secession was neither right upon the principles of the Constitution, nor upon any sound principles of revolution, and that the position so often assumed that when any given number of States resolve upon revoution, they necessarily have the right to revolutionize by reason of an assumed exlusive right to determine for themselve the grounds of revolution, is wholly untenable. For the right of revolution is a moral question, and whether revolution, in any iven case, be right or not, is not to b determined by a single party to the case, but, Now, our readers can rest easy. There like other moral questions, must be deterview of the good or evil resulting from, or involved in the revolution.

I have published various other articles opposition to the whole Southern schem of disunion.

The sentiments contained in those articles have not changed. I still adhere to, enorse, and approve them. Since the publication of those articles certain doctrines have been avowed by the resent Administration, and its especial adherents, and certain acts have been done and certain ominous tendencies have been which our institutions would be of no ions, acts and tendencies of the present Administration. This was not because do not love my country, and do not wish, as the paramount object of political desire, to preserve the Union; but it is just because do love my country, and do earnestly wish that the Constitution may be preserved as it is and the Union maintained as it was

In the language of the creed of the Union party, I am for the "Union, the Constituion and the enforcement of the laws. believe that the Union is essential to the Constitution, and that the Constitution is equally essential to the Union.

As a bond of Union, I prefer the Consti-tution of the United States to a party platform, and, for an exposition of its meaning, I prefer the decisions of the Supreme Court to the opinions and acts of any sectional political party whatever, whether Northern or Southern.

It has occurred to me, however, that the best way to preserve the Union is for the Government to execute the powers delegated to it, and not to infringe upon the powers reserved by the Constitution to the States respectively or to the people, and for each State to attend to its own by

Holding the Constitution as the sole rule of faith, I am equally opposed to Secession-ism and to every aspect and phase of Abotionists can't assume to support a Govern-

Knowing the Constitution to be the "su reme law" and the "public safety," the "surema lex" and the "salus populi" -the latter cause the former-I do not believe that the President of the United States has power to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, or to imprison a citizen (outside of the land and naval forces) upon his bare probable cause, and supported by oath or affirmation, or that he or his Generals can lawfully proclaim martial law upon their aere arbitrary judgment of what they may choose to call State necessity.

It has seemed to me that, however suc cessfully a military commander may, in times of extreme public peril, throw himself upon his country to excuse him for disregardng the writ of habeas corpus-that great privilege of a freeman-or for making oclamation of martial law, it should never taught as a legal principle that the Pres dent of the United States, an executive officer of limited power, has a right, either as commander-in-chief of the army and navy or in any other capacity, to suspend the privilege of the great writ, or that he can, at his option, as a matter of law, authorize a procamation of what is denominated martia law, but what, in reality, is no law at all If the doing of these things be indispensable to the life of the Government, let then excused as a necessity, but never justified as American Constitutional law.

I believe that, although Congress may uspead the privilege of the writ of habeas orpus, when in cases of rebellion or invasion public safety may require it, the Presi dent can never do it, and that both Congress and the President combined cannot lawfulls dispense with an original judicial constitu ional warrant of arrest.

I believe that the Constitution guarantees certainly to an extent not incompatible with the life of the government) freedom of speech, and of the press, and the necessity due process of law preliminary to de of "life, liberty and property, privatio and the right to a speedy and public trial by jury, and the right to be informed of the ture and cause of an accusation. And I believe that the present Executive of the United States, and his subordinate officers, have, in numerous instances, without and paramount law of national necessity, violated the personal and individual rights of the private citizen. Nor could I ever see upon that principle that grand and glorious corporation-the "United States of America -could plead the treasonable conduct of secessionists—that is Southern offenses of criminals on trial at the barthe very crimes of rebellious culprits against the Union-as a ground, and warrant of justification, for contemning and disregarding the principles of the Constitution by which alone that great corporation itself has it

I have not believed that either the General Government or the Government of Kentucky has any power to pass a general legislative act of confiscation of the absolute property of rebels-including real estate, slaves, and personalty-or that either can confer such power upon the courts. Upon this point it is easy to deduce fro the Constitution an argument that is absolutely irrefragable and conclusive, to the effect that a forfeiture of estate cannot extend beyond the life of the person attainted. "Treason against the United States," says he Constitution, "shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their nemies, giving them aid and comfort." Congress shall have power to de lare the punishment of treason, but no atainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, EXCEPT DURING THE LIFE OF THE PERSON ATTAINTED.

unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open "Ne bill of attainder shall be passed." Now, a direct legislative act of confisca-tion is in the nature of a bill of attainder;

"No person shall be convicted of treason and a bill of attainder is expressly prohib ited by the Constitution. And, although there may be a judicial at inder of treason, it is clearly provided in the constitution that no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeit-ure of estate EXCEPT DURING THE LIFE OF THE PERSON ATTAINED; and not even then testimony of two witnesses or confessed in sist that all the States shall be pro has been established upon ent found by a grand jury tried by a petit jury-and with all the other into the Federal lines, and many complaints guards thrown around the accused by the laws, and privileges of a criminal trial. How, then, can it be possible that, without my conviction for treason at all, the estate nerely for his life, but absolutely and for

I have not believed that Congress (even if it be granted that it had the constituional power) could, in good faith, and as a natter of impartial justice and policy to all advance into the interior, then will the States alike—both free and slave—abolish slavery in the District of Columbia r compensate the owners of slaves out of the joint and common treasury of the whole Inion. For in so doing, they certainly exact from the slave States an involuntary ntribution of money for a partial destruction of an institution in which those States are vitally interested-and thus, by an act of sectional arbitrary power, compet those States to hurl a blow at one of their most cherished institutions, if not the most cherished of all their institutions. I am utterly opposed to a spirit of encroachment upon the rights of either States or individuals.

I have always thought that in attemptin divide this Union, a most stupendous, frightful, and awful blunder was com mitted by the cotton States against their own peculiar interests as well as against the welfare of the whole United States. mined by the common sense of mankind, in And I have wondered that those States did not see that a boundary line of separation between two Confederacies could not be amicably agreed on, even if disunion were otherwise desirable-and that it is not less difficult to run a satisfactory boundary line of separation than to coerce the seceding States to allegiance, or to reconcile the parts of our distracted country.

It is plain from an examination, in one view, of the State Constitutions and the Federal Constitution, that they constitute sort of dual system of government, the emponent parts of which are essential to ach other, and yet, as far as possible, were designed to be separate from and independent of each other. In a word, each Government, State and Federal, is sovereign for certain purpose; the Federal as to all owers delegated to it, and the State Governments as to all powers reserved to them respectively; but yet it takes both Governments to fill completely the idea of a perfect, theoretical, and practical govern-mental sovereignty. In the working of this complex machinery, it was no more designed that the Federal Government should abolish a State Government, or interfere with State institutions, than that a State Government should throw off the FEDERAL Government, or interfere with FEDERAL institutions.

It was naturally expected, however, that in practice an occasional conflict of juris-diction would occur, and accordingly provision has been made in the Federal Constitution for just such an emergency. For it is therein provided that "the judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and arising under this Constitution, the laws the United States, and treaties made or which shall be made under their authority." "The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may, from time to time, establish." "This Constitution and the laws of the United States, WHICH SHALL BE MADE IN PURSUANCE THEREor, and all treaties made or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land," &c., &c. From these citations it is evident that, whilst statutes passed by Congress-not in pursuance of the Constitution are not valid laws, yet, in the very nature of the case, there must needs be some com mon arbiter to decide questions of conflict. and the decisions of the Federal Courts, when pronounced in reference to the boundar lines of Federal and State authority should, in my opinion, be respected and obeyed Inion man, and I am especially opposed to the secession of Kentucky, or any attempt at secession by Kentucky, from the Union And I sincerely and earnestly desire that the rebellion may speedily cease of its own accord, or else be put down by the strong arm of lawful authority. A vast majority of the American peop are resolved that, come what may, the "land," of which the Constitution declares itself to be the supreme law, shall not b divided-that not one acre of it shall be surrendered to another power-that one and all the people of the United States have an the whole "land," in Louisiana, Texas and Florida-in all the Southern States-in the great inland sea-the father of waters and its mouth-and in the Gulf of Mexico-and that two competing and inde-pendent Governments shall not be constructed or tolerated upon the "land" own face, that it is the supreme law.

I know that no reason or disloyalty is intended, and know that I am loyal in conduct and heart. It is true that my sentiments may be wrong, and it is very certain that they please everybody. It is indeed likely that they will offend both extremes of public opinion. But they are, nevertheless, my sentiments, and I shall be happy if they will suit the great conservative heart of the country. BLE SPEECH BY GOV. STANLY, AT WASH INGTON, TO DELEGATES REPRESENTING SEVENTEEN COUNTIES.

C., at a Union meeting in which seventeen counties were represented The speech was also heard by a large num soldiers, and the Newbern Progres. says that by the army and by North Carolinians it was received with great satisfaction. Governor Stanly began reference to the circumstances under which he appeared before his old friends. He said that, while he had no intention to tall olitics, he had foreseen the troubles which have come upon the country, and conse quently he had, in 1860, supported Bell and He remarked that North Carolin was in the full enjoyment of the "peaceable glories of secession," and that its ould ascertain how much preferable their ondition now was to what it had been. He charged the origin of the war upon the South, and vindicated Mr. Lincoln for at once meeting the danger by his proclama-tion calling for troops. Had the President done otherwise, he would have deserved the doors of a traitor, Gov. Stanly reviewed wed how facts had falsified all their predictions. He said that the government rebel prisoners kindly, rebels had perpetrated barbarities upon those who had fallen into their hands. On the slavery question the Governor dwelt at some length. We quote a few sentences:

"You say your slaves are all to be eman-inated. What course has the Federal government pursued thus far in regard to your When Fremont, Hunter and Phelps issued their proclamations of emancipatio did not the President revoke them all? He he not adhered strictly to the constitu all their rights?

"The Union must be preserved, though all the institutions in the South should be periled, and all her property of every kind devastated. This Union and Government is worth more than all the property of the South, and the lives of all the rebels.

Much has been said about the negro schools in Newbern. When I came I found them there established by Mr. Colyer. He came to me and asked my opinion. I gave it to him, and told him that I thought in was injudicious at this time; that it would look as though I intended to disregard the laws of the State, which would destroy all my influence, and make me a very unwel-come visitor to the people of North Caro-lins. I treated the gentleman kindly, made no threats to him, nor did I give him any advice or instructions. I have been mis represented in this whole matter, which has unnecessarily engendered a bad feeling.
"I come with the olive branch, and stand for the time being, between you and the powerful armies of the Republic, whose onward march will sweep you under, and necessarily destroy your institutions when brought in contact with opposing forces. Soon it will be too late for you to accept of my honorable terms. Then events must be left to the harshand cruel necessities of the justice which is vindicated by the sword. "After Hunter's proclamation I called on President Lincoln and told him that, if sweeping emancipation was the policy the administration, I could not go to North Carolina. He assured me that it was not, and that the administration had no such power. I believe he is sincere in all he says, and that it is not his desire to distress inecessarily any State, or deprive her of any of her constitutional rights.

Such is Mr. Lincoln, whom you have regarded with so much terror, and denounced so bitterly. He stands by the constitution, unmoved, and I do not believe it is in the power of any human being or party to turn im either to the right or left. Governor Stanly urged his hearers to take good heed to what he said; advised them to report his words to their neighbors spoke of the enormous and irresistible power and determination of the Federal Government; alluded to the forts and cities already taken, and the bloody battles already won; and proclaimed in eloquent and truthful terms the advantages of the old Union, and the desirableness of a return to it. He said he had accepted the position because he thought he could do good. He felt that he had already accomplished good and that the prospect before him was flattering. THE RED RIVER SETTLEMENT-A CALL FOR REASONS FOR SUCH A STEP

The Nor wester, of May 28, published a Red River Settlement, contains a spirited the United States. It says that Great Britain shows perfect indifference to the settlement, and it enjoys none of the commercial or governmental advantages it has a right to expect; and, on the other hand, American influences of every kind are operating upon it. In support of the posiion taken, the Nor'wester says:

"Mark the following facts: "(1.) We have no stal communication with any part of the ivilized world, except through the United States. For two or three years previous to 1860, the Canadian Government maintained a monthly mail to and from this settlement via Fort William, on Lake Superior. This was a step in the right direction, though the arrangement was very unsatisfactorily out. But, irregular as were the mails, we had a right to expect that they would continue, and gradually, through experience of the route, would work better The Canadian Government has, however discontinued this small boon, and we are a this moment entirely dependent on the favor of the American Government for our means of communicating with the world. They have, at great expense, established a fort nail to our frontier-sixty miles from this settlement-almost entirely for our own benefit. Does this fact not presen the British Government to our view at a disadvantage? (2.) If we except the roundabout, slow, and very uncertain route through the Arctic straits of Hudson's Bay, it is only through or from the States that we can import goods-by an American route alone can we export furs, skins, cattle, or anything else! Is this fa vorable to loyalty? An importer from Britain can at present get but one supply o goods in the year, and counts himself very lucky indeed if, considering the many possible mishaps, he does get it; whereas the dealer in American goods can get twenty supplies during the same time, if he chooses (3) The only decent route into this country for emigrants is through the States. The consequence is that the foreigners who are settling amongst us are for the most part American citizens, or persons thoroughly Americanized. Is their influence favorable to loyalty? (4) By frequent intercourse with the Americans, and occasional visits to Chicago, Boston, New York, &c., the impression is fast gaining ground that there is no people like our republican neighbors. We see their fine cities, their railroads, and their steamboats; read of the rapid settle ment of new Territories, and of the liberal system of legislation by which the sudden development of the resources of new dis triets is a matter of every-day experience Meanwhile we see nothing of England's prosperity and greatness, and get none of her vast wealth—and the inference from all is, that our best plan is at once to be

The Times thinks it very hard for a Confed General to win a victory in Northern papers, and insinuates that the first day's fight was a success for the Confederates, and was brought about by generalship, and says it was neutralized by the second day, which was a drawn battle. These battles tell no more than that both parties are strong enough to shed each othe and weak enough to do it.

The Baily News treats the affair as decided victory for the Federals. It regards it as a good illustration of the soundness of British policy in refraining from mediation. The Star and Telegraph also claim ictory for the Federals

The Morning Post argues that the Federals were worsted, and says no one can read McClellan's dispatch without being convinced that it tells a story of surprise and defeat

The Herald thinks McClellan's silence disturbed and perhaps spoiled by the vigilance of the enemy.

The Times, in a second article, thinks such battles cannot fail to have strong effect on Northern minds and show the difficulties of the task undertaken. Every month shows the impossibility more clearly of restoring the Union by force of arms. It hopes, if the hot weather suspends hostilities, that the voice of reason will be heard.

gade and cavalry under Col. Tompkins made a reconnoissance in force up the val-ley and entered the town this morning driving the pickets and capturing one. Four companies of rebel cavelry, who occupied the town, fled at our approach. Our cavalry pursued them a mile out on the New Market road, when a skirmish ensued. Our cavalry charged the enemy. We took four prisoners and wounded several. Our loss was one killed and three wounded. The object of the reconnoissance was fully accomplished.

The enemy had no stores there. NEW YORK, July 1.

Morning papers' correspondence contain nothing new from before Richmond. The Herald's correspondence of the 26th states that Hooker's division was ordered to have one day's rations in their haversacks and be in line of battle at 7 o'clock Wednesday.

A move was made at 8 o'clock by the 1st Massachusetts, Col. Cowding, as skirmishers, across an open field, driving in the rebels, when the 1st was re-enforced by the remainder of Grover's brigade and the Excelsion celsior and Jersey brigades, driving the rebels out of the woods, which our troops took possession of.

This occupied till eleven o'clock, when two guns were brought up, doing great execution. Between twelve and one o'clock we again advanced, receiving and returning several heavy volleys of musketry, when the rebes fixed bayonets, and started at double-quick towards the 1st and 11th Mas-sachusetts and 26th Pennsylvania, who were ready for them. on came the rebels with a yell, but the cinnati Gazette of to-day: Night before last at 11 o'clock, an attack was made on the Provost Guard, about one hundred strong, at Henderson, Ky. They were lately stationed there by Gen. Boyle. The cause assigned for the assault is, that the guard arrested several prominent citizens, who were said to be abetting the rebels and assisting in the guerrilla warfare in that and the adjoining counties.

The Federals occupied as a camp the Na tional House, and were fired into on all sides, the assailants being secreted behind a board fence and the corners of houses near by. The firing lasted an hour and a half, when the rebels skedaddled.

Capt. Daly, Lieut. Daly and several others were wounded. Lieut. Tyler was killed and his body is on the way to Cleveland for interment. It is not known how many of the Secesh were killed and wounded, but it is thought a good many were carried of leave no clue as to the assassing was laid beforehand, as one of the church cells rang just at eleven, when the attack vas made, and again sounded at half-past twelve, which was the order for a retreat. Our forces were re-enforced by thirty men from the hospital, making our side about one hundred and thirty. The strength of the enemy is not known, but it is supposed to have been five hundred. To-night nundred convalescents from the hospitals have left, to re-enforce our side.

Henderson county and the counties adining have done more in aiding the rebell ion than any portion of Kentucky, and a company raised there for the rebel cause was at Bowlinggreen and Fort Donelson At the latter, they were taken prisoners and are now at Indianapolis. The 59th Pennsylvania Cavalry is in the vicinity of Caloun or Green river. Re-enforcements are expected from Louisville to-morrow.

EXECUTION OF A SPY .- A man named Andrews, a native of Hancock county, Va., was executed at Atlanta, Ga., on the 7th inst., on a charge of being a spy, and stealing and carrying off an engine belonging to the Confederates, and burning bridges He was recently a resident of Southwestern Missouri. A good portion of his life had been spent in Fleming county, Ky. He had no family, but was engaged to be married during this month. He said he was induced to attempt the stealing of the engine under promise of a large reward by the Federals, and the privilege of smuggling through from the North $5,000 worth goods per month; that he did not intend to ourn the bridges, but to take the engine to the Federals, and that he was not an enemy to the Confederate government or people. burg.

Special Dispatch to the Missouri Democrat. MEMPHIS, June 28. The ram Dick Fulton has just arrived from Vicksburg, and reports that the ram fleet reached a point two miles above Vicks-burg on Monday, the 23d. The Monarch went within sight of Vicks ourg, and Lieut, Col. Ellett sent four men cross the neck of land opposite Vicksburg, o communicate with Farragut's fleet be low. They soon met five hundred rebel scouts, and came near being captured, but escaped and succeeded in reaching Farragut's fleet, and have brought back dispatches from Commodore Farragut. Farragut talked of cutting a canal through the neck opposite Vicksburg, and so opening comnunication by boat.

A guard of seventy marines was sent back with the four men who went down. A deserter from Vicksburg, whom they picked up, said that there were only 13 guns nounted at Vicksburg; but it was thought he was mistaken, as he said he had not been inside the battery, and only spoke from rumor. The impression in the fleet is that there were about 100 guns at Vicksburg, and the rebels were prepared for a hard contest before they would surrender. Commodore Farragut burned Grand Gulf n the 24th ult.

Capt. Cadman, of the Dick Fulton, also heard from other deserters that the rebels had ten small rams up the Yazoo river. Also that their great ram Mallory, built at Memphis, was up the Yazoo, hard aground. On the way up, the Fulton met hundreds of skiffs with persons going down to join Above Vicksburg smouldering camp fires were discovered one morning, in Yellow Bend, as though some force of the enemy had recently crossed the river at that place.

The Fulton also went fifty miles up the St. Francis river to reconnoiter. She found where several large lots of cotton had been burned. Many persons along the river banks hurrahed for Jeff Davis, and flung the remains of the burned cotton in the air as the Fulton passed. A gentleman just arrived from White iver says our whole fleet of gunboats and transports was out at the mouth of White river on Wednesday, the 26th.

CAIRO, July 1. Advices from Arkansas are to the effect that General Hindman, with some 5,000 rebels, was in the immediate vicinity of St. Charles, and that Colonel Fitch had abanloned the fort, after spiking the guns. The situation of General Cartis is said to be critical, he being unable to bring sup-olics, and his army having been on half plies, and his army

Mr. Sumner said that the bill proposed that all children born after April, 1863, shall be free; but allowed the present generation of slaves to continue slaves, thus admitting another slave State, with two Sen-ators, for a whole generation. I suppose, from what I can make of the confused and indefinite article of R., that he would regard my suggestions as "reflecting censure and disloyalty upon the School Board of Trustees." Let me assure him that I have not given birth to such reflections, because I think and believe that a large majority of the trustees are sound and loyal as men can be, and will prove their loyalty by casting off expediences and meeting the question fairly, and carrying it in the spirit and letter of the resolution adopted at their last meeting I regard their legislation as hasty, too hasty for a subject of so much importance; but do not reflect either "censure or disloyalty" because they made no further advance at their last meeting. I have no wish what ever to enter issue with R. on the subject of selecting teachers, because they happened to be born on or off the soil of Kentucky. am a Kentuckian, born and reared in the State. The ashes of my patriot sires slumber in her soil. I love her—love her with fond-ness and devotion; but I am yet to find the first pulsation in my heart that beats responsive to sedition or treason in the heart of any Kentuckian. Mr. Holyoke, I believe, was not born in Kentucky, and why this sud-den, this strange decision, not to employ any teachers unless they are Kentuckians HENDERSON.-The J. T. McCombs is the regular The fancy of R. outruns his prudence and logic, and discovers too much State rights. I apprehend, to suit loyal Kentuckians or loyal citizens of the United States. I preume to say that R. will find himself wholly mistaken when the Board of Trustees shall have fully examined the premises and made out their decisions. They will select loyal Kentuckians, if loyal Kentuckians present themselves and are qualified; and they will select Scotch, German, French, English, Irish, or any others, who may be esteemed by them best qualified, and in whose veins

> ARRESTED .- The Nashville Union of yeserday says that the notorious Rev. C. D. Elliott, a literary quack from Ohio, who has been keeping a sort of a boarding-school for young ladies in Nashville, and for some time past a red-mouthed rebel, was arrested and sent to the penitentiary day before yesterday for treason, to be sent South. Last winter, at a prayer-meeting, in one of the Nashville churches, this blasphemer prayed God Almighty to whiten the hills and valleys of the South with the bones of the men who fought to preserve the Union. Dr. Cheatham, Superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum, was also arrested on the same charge, and sent to the penitentiary. He will be shipped to Dixie.

We learn, says the Nashville Union, ry went up into Sumner county, where some rebels were raising recruits for guerilla service, and seized eight men and four excellent horses, as they were crossing the SUDDEN DEATH .- Mrs. Hedden, an old and highly esteemed resident of New Albany, while engaged in sewing yesterday norning about 9 o'clock, dropped her thimble. While in the act of stooping to pick it up she suddenly fell upon the floor and instantly expired. Mrs. Hedden was one of the early pioneers of New Albany.

GREENMAN & TRUE'S NEW SHUTTLE

Sewing Machine.

Elias Howe, Jr., and S. H. Roper's Combined Patents.

Straight-Line Movements, Original Transverse Shut-tle, and Periphery Clamp Feed-Wheel. THESE SEWING MACHINES COMBINE THE most recent improvements, are nearly noiseless A most recent improvements, are nearly noisely when in operation, run with the greatest case and raidity, and are better adapted for general purposes a family use than any other. They are not liable to a out of order, are exceedingly simple, and are made pressly for real practical utility; they do every varied as words, from the finest woren tissue to the heavier woolen goods, both tailoring and fine leather wor Any person may learn to operate them in a very she time. The great difficulty with all other old-style Machin The great difficulty with all other old-style Machin is too much complication, requiring so much constant adjustment, and such an amount of mechanical sk and ingeautly to use them to advantage, as to rend them of little comparative value.

But the Sewing Machines manufictured by Green man & True are not liable to these objections, as an person, on even a moment's examination, will reading discover. They will do more and better work than are other Machine ever offered to the public, making it most beautiful lock-stitch, alika on both sides. Ser for an off-hand specimen of sewing upon any materiyou wish, and you will then see now it is done. AGENTS WANTED IN EVERY TOW
